Information provided about the background and services of individual inspectors is offered as a courtesy only and has by ASHI. ASHI assumes no liability for accuracy of this information. We urge you to confirm this information with the you contact them.

Dan Meyers has an engineering degree as well as years of experience as a home inspector. Dan holds New Jersey licenses for Home Inspection and I testing. Prior to being a home inspector, Dan worked as an electrical engine construction industry and as a software designer for major financial service companies. Dan will take the time to patiently explain all findings. We do schedule inspections, so we do not have to rush your inspection.
